DETAILED ACTION

1. Applicant's request for reconsideration of the finality of the rejection of the last Office action is persuasive and, therefore, the finality of that action is withdrawn.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Bloomfield (Pub. No.: US 20050012965)

Regarding claim 1, 10 Bloomfield discloses: A method for the transmission of image data from a sender to a recipient; comprising the steps of: inserting at the location of the sender into a data transmission including an image format portion data identifying the address of the intended recipient of the image-format portion of the transmission and message tracking data (note Figs.4&5, page 5, paragraphs 0042-0044, and specifically paragraph 0042, lines 26-36, wherein the sender inserts the sender's address along with the email address of the recipient and at the same time to code is added for tracking the job and reporting errors) transmitting the data transmission over a transmission system from the sender's location to an intermediate point of presence facility (note Fig.11C, page 10&11, paragraph 0069, lines, and specifically lines 16-56, wherein the fax data stored is the server 110 would be attached and sent to the email server) and receiving the data transmission by the point of presence facility and re-transmitting the data comprising the image portion to the identified address of the recipient (note page 11, paragraphs 0070-0072).

Regarding claim 2 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 1 wherein the message tracking data inserted comprises at least one of accounting, audit and documentation data (note abstract, lines 16-19, also note page 7, paragraph 0056).

Regarding claim 3 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 2 further including the step of processing the message tracking data by the point of presence facility (note page 7, paragraph 0056).

Regarding claim 4 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 3 including the further step of stripping the message tracking data from the data transmission at the point of presence facility before retransmission (note page 10, paragraph 0069, lines 16-40).

Regarding claim 5 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 1 further including the steps of: inserting at the location of the sender into the data transmission data identifying an address of the sender; and sending a confirmation message to the sender's address by the point of presence facility after re-transmitting the data comprising the image portion to the recipient's identified address (note Figs. 11C&12, where the transmitted data is retransmitted to the recipient).

Regarding claim 6 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 1, wherein the address of the recipient is an e- mail address and the step of re-transmitting the data includes forwarding the data in the form of an e-mail attachment to the recipient's e-mail address (note Fig. 11C, page 10&11, paragraph 0069, lines, and specifically lines 16-56, wherein the fax data stored is the server 110 would be attached and sent to the email server, also note page 11, paragraphs 0070-

Regarding claim 7 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 4, wherein the address of the recipient is an e-mail address and the step of re-transmitting the data includes forwarding the data in the form of an e-mail attachment to the recipient's e-mail address (note Figs.4&5, page 5, paragraph 0042-0044).

Regarding claim 8 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 6, wherein the address of the sender is an e-mail address and the step of sending a confirmation message includes forwarding an e-mail message to the sender's e-mail address (note page 11, paragraphs 0070-0072).

Regarding claim 9 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 1 further including the steps of: generating a confirmation message by the point of presence facility after re- transmitting the data comprising the image portion to the recipient's identified address; and allowing the sender access to the confirmation message (note page 4, paragraph 0037, lines 5-16).

Regarding claim 11 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 10 wherein the identified address of the recipient is a telephone number associated with a facsimile reception apparatus and said re- transmission includes a portion over a telephone line linked to the facsimile reception apparatus (note pages 2&3, paragraphs 0029-0034).

Regarding claim 12 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 10 wherein the transmission from the sender to the point of presence facility is in the form of an e-mail transmission (note page 5, paragraphs 0042-0043).

Regarding claim 13 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 1 wherein the step of transmitting the data transmission over a telephone system from the sender's location to an intermediate point of presence facility include converting the image data to facsimile format and transmitting the image data in the facsimile format (note page 10, paragraph 0069).

Regarding claim 14 Bloomfield discloses: The method of claim 10 wherein the message tracking data inserted comprises at least one of accounting, audit and documentation data (note abstract, lines 16-19, also note page 7, paragraph 0056).
